

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Various aspects of the invention provide for the creation, modification, transfer, manipulation, requesting and destruction of information objects in a computer network. Although some aspects of the invention are based on publish-subscribe
5 techniques, many modifications and additional features are provided.